

Do you support the KUS introducing an annual $250.00 per student building fee for the Community Health Science Centre for future Bachelor of Kinesiology students subject to the following conditions?"

In supporting the proposal to introduce a building fee beginning no earlier than the opening of the Community Health Science Centre (CHSC), the following conditions are applied:

- 1) The fee amount would be $250.00 beginning the first academic year that the building is open.
- 2) Revenue from the fee will be used to repay an internal loan from UBC Treasury that will be put towards constructing the CHSC. This fee will continue to be levied until the loan is fully repaid over 30 years.
- 3) After the first year that it is levied, the fee will increase by 2% to reflect inflation.
- 4) This fee will only be levied if all elements listed below are included in the building plan. These include:
 - a. A dedicated office space for the KUS.
 - b. A student fitness centre.
 - c. Informal student learning space/priority study space accessible 24 hours a day, each day of the week.
 - d. Healthy food and smoothie service outlet.
 - e. The installation of 400 half-lockers.
 - f. KIN student representation (1 undergraduate student & 1 graduate student) sitting on the CHSC Working Committee.
- 5) If UBC terminates plans to construct the CHSC, as currently programmed, or does not grant Board 1 approval (or its then equivalent) to the construction of the centre within 5 years from the end date of the referendum, the student leadership of the KUS that year will have the option to withdraw the offer upon written notice to UBC in consideration of the student's needs.
